Lest We Forget

Attending Remembrance Day ceremonies on November 11 is the best-known way that we can publicly honour the men and women who served Canada in times of war, military conflict and peace. In addition, there are many other ways that we can show throughout the year that we care about the sacrifices and achievements of these one and a half million brave Canadians who served, and continue to serve, our country at home and abroad.

1. Wear a poppy to honour those in uniform who have served Canada and also those who have died in service to our country.
2. Attend Remembrance Day ceremonies or if you can't go watch them on television.
3. Lay a wreath at the cenotaph with classmates and friends.
4. Pause for one minute of silence at 11:00 a.m. on November 11 to honour those who served and died in times of war, military conflict and peace.
5. Thank a Veteran or Canadian Forces member for supporting peace and freedom efforts around the world.
6. Last but certainly not least: never forget the contributions and sacrifices of the men and women who have served Canada in times of war, military conflict and peace - especially those who did not return.
